To whom it Concerns:

My wife and I have known Emmanuel Ajanma for over four years now, in the capacity of Fr. Emmanuel and friend Emmanuel. Over the years we have seen Emmanuel's ability to adapt to a whole new culture with relative ease and grace. This is no easy task to learn to adapt and work with people whose language and culture is different from your own.

Emmanuel has been able to not only adapt to a different way of life but to blend in like he has lived here forever. His knowledge, grace and presence are welcoming and calming. Emmanuel loves people and it is evident in the congregations he has served over the years. He has increased attendance, morale and finances in all places he has worked. He knows how to get people to rally together for the common good. He knows how to inspire and put enthusiasm into others to change organizations for the better. Emmanuel's integrity and fairness will make any school environment a happy place to learn and work.

Emmanuel's gift is being with people and that could not be more evident till you see how he inspires children to do their best. To put it simply Emmanuel brings out the best in others. Who doesn't want that kind of Leader!

Emmanuel has years of experience in dealing with many different people from all walks of life. His experience, his course of study, his intelligence makes him an excellent choice for any school. I can assure you that what he doesn't know he will learn quickly. I urge you to meet him to see for yourself what he has to offer, not because he is our friend, but because you will be pleasantly surprised what he has to give and what he can accomplish for your organization.

Sincerely,

David LaCroix
